

Election Capsule

The three incumbents elected last Tuesday have had a total of 18 years of council service. For Edgar Smith, it was his 4th consecutive win; for Francis White and Richard Pilski, their 3rd. All three had also served previously. For the two newcomers elected — Joel Katz and Elizabeth Maffay, it was their first attempt at the office.

... And Also Running

Write-in votes were cast last Tuesday for Ed Kaighn, Marlin Cohen, Lynmore Buersymer, Ben Goldfaden, Bruce Bowman, James Cassels, and Peter Evansky. There were 37 absentee ballots.

3 INCUMBENTS, 2 NEWCOMERS ELECTED

The Police Blotter

On August 24, between 4 and 5 a.m., the lights went out at the Convalescent Center. As the attendant went down to the basement to check on the fuse box, a sleeping patient was robbed of $18 from her strongbox. The patient awoke during the robbery and the police were notified. There are two suspects in the case.

Two other nocturnal burglaries occurred September 7, between 1:30 and 7:30 a.m. at the Springhill Lake apartments while the occupants were sleeping. In one case no forcible entry was noted, but it is thought that the burglar came in through the sliding glass door. A man's wallet was taken and some household articles rearranged.

At the second apartment, the sliding glass door was jimmied open and a lady's purse containing $6 was stolen.

Both apartments were on the first floor, and Chief William Lane notes that ordinary locks on sliding doors are not always sufficient in keeping out burglars and that various devices, such as a metal bar or rod, can be placed in the track to prevent the door from being opened.

On August 31, at 3:10 a.m., a pocketbook snatch occurred on Lakewood Drive. A woman was accosted by someone, who first asked her if she knew where a certain person lived. Then, as he tried to grab her purse, she struggled and was hit in the face; the robber made off with the purse, and she was left grasping the strap. The police are looking for a white male teenager, 14-19 years old, 120 lbs. 5'4", dark brown hair, and last seen wearing a rust striped T-shirt and brown slacks.

The police were able to close five breaking and entering cases in GHI houses due to the investigative work of Det. John Krov. Two teenagers and one adult have been charged with these five breaking and entering cases, as well as others in the county. The boys would knock on a person's door during the afternoon to establish if the occupants were away. They would return in the evening, breaking the glass pane on the front door, and take various items, such as a coin collection and a TV. The trio have also been implicated in some automobile thefts.

A checkbook was stolen from a home in which the juvenile entered through a common attic. Forged checks later turned up and, through investigation, the suspect was caught.

Chief Lane seeks the public's cooperation in adhering to the 15 mph speed limit in the school zones now that the schools are back in session. Chief Lane also thanks all the citizens of Greenbelt for their cooperation in making the Labor Day Festival free of any bad incidents.

A 15-year-old run-away boy and his juvenile companion, both from Greenbelt, were apprehended in Georgia while driving a stolen car.

Katz, Maffay Join F. White, Smith, Pilski on City Council

A deluge of Springhill Lake votes put Joel Katz and Elizabeth Maffay on the Greenbelt City Council at last Tuesday's election. Victims of the onslaught were incumbents William Hoff and Leo Gerton, but the margin of defeat was narrow. Only 10 votes separated fifth place winner Mrs. Maffay from Hoff who finished sixth.

High man in the balloting was incumbent councilman Francis White who drew well in all precincts. He had a margin of over 300 votes over his nearest rival, Mayor Edgar Smith. In third place was incumbent Richard Pilski, followed by Katz. (The votes are given in the accompanying box.)

The advisory referendum on firearms control produced an almost 2 to 1 vote in favor of stronger state gun-control laws. About 64 percent of those voting said "Yes" to the question "Shall the City Council of Greenbelt advise the members of the Maryland General Assembly, the Governor and the Attorney General that it is the desire of the electorate to have enacted new legislation to extend existing firearms control laws?" The vote was 1,276 to 717.

Seven of the 10 candidates pulled over 40 percent of the 2,267 votes cast. Thus, no runoff is required. The 2,267 votes cast was the highest in the history of the city and represented 75 percent of the 2,991 registered voters. This ratio was much higher than the 68 percent in 1967 or 72 percent in 1965, but not as high as the 81 percent who voted in 1963.

A rundown of the turnout in the respective precincts follows:

	Registered Voters	Votes Cast	%
Center	1,012	798	79
North End	869	716	82
Springhill	1,110	749	67

An analysis of the voting reveals that the campaign of the "Springhill Lake Citizens for Fair City Government" was effective when it asked Springhill Lake citizens to concentrate their vote on candidates Katz, Maffay, and Francis White. These candidates received margins of over 400 votes over the incumbent councilmen.

These margins almost disappeared, however, as the returns from Center and North End precincts gave the incumbents comfortable leads. Smith and Pilski were the top vote getters in the combined vote of these precincts, and Hoff and Gerton outran F. White in "old" Greenbelt.

Mrs. Maffay is the first woman to be elected to council since Elizabeth S. Harrington served two terms on the council 1947-51. Previously, Ruth Taylor served on council from 1938-41.

Joel Katz is the first resident of Springhill Lake to be elected to council. His election ushers in a new period in Greenbelt politics as observers assess the political clout of Springhill Lake.

The new council, which will serve for two years, will hold an organization meeting on Monday, September 22, at which time the new mayor will be elected. Although the charter is silent on this point, there has been a tradition in the past of choosing the top votegetter as mayor.

Nuclear Power Plants

To the Editor:

The Baltimore Gas & Electric Co., which has Atomic Energy Commission approval to build two huge nuclear power plants at Calvert Cliffs on the Chesapeake Bay, has been taking newspaper ads aimed at assuring the public that the plants will not be harmful to the environment and to the humans and other life forms that are part of it.

Some persons, including competent scientists and other experts, disagree with BG&E, with the AEC, and with the present plans of the nation's utilities to build a large number of large nuclear power plants before certain questions have been resolved. They do raise safety questions, as to the impact on people and environment.

At the last GHI membership meeting, a motion was passed to set up a committee to look into the question of the Calvert Cliffs plants as to environmental safety and to report to the membership on whether Greenbelters have an interest in the matter. The GHI Board of Directors set up a committee, consisting of James Foster, Douglas Hawes, John Leslie, James Parochetti, and Mat Amberg, to look into this.

The committee has been studying much material from various sources, including from the company, AEC, and those critical of the Calvert Cliffs plants and of the way in which the national atomic program has been pushed forward. We have viewed films put out by the AEC and by the British Government's equivalent of AEC. And now the committee — as part of the process of educating itself so that it may report intelligently — has arranged for a panel discussion at which the various contending views will be expressed. We welcome other Greenbelters to come to this panel discussion, Oct. 1, at 8 p.m., at GHI's Board Room.

There'll be two spokesmen for BG&E — the company's chief mechanical engineer, Robert Davies, and Dr. Morton I. Goldman, vice president of NUS Corp., a nuclear consulting firm to BG&E. There'll be two Johns Hopkins University scientists who have been fighting the nuclear plant — Dr. Timothy Merz, associate professor of radiological biology and Dr. Edward Radford, professor of environmental medicine. And there'll be the chairman of the department of environmental research of the Maryland Univ. Natural Resources Institute, Dr. Joseph Mihursky.

Reserve the evening of October 1; you will want to be there.

GHI Ad Hoc Nuclear Plant Committee

SOME OF OUR GLASSES NEVER SPLINTER

Are you an active person who wears old style glasses? If so, the only person who stands to lose is you. Ordinary eyeglass lenses stand as brittle targets that can disintegrate into blinding shards or slivers under the slightest impact. Science Park Opticians' case-hardened safety lenses eliminate this threat to your eyes.

Safety lenses are made of tough, shatter-resistant glass that has been heated in a special furnace and then chilled rapidly—similar to the way steel is case-hardened. Safety lenses are also available in optical-grade plastic.

The frames of safety glasses must be sturdy and flame-resistant, and be able to retain the safety lenses under impact. At Science Park Opticians, we have a complete line of fashionable frames from which to select your individual style for safety lenses.

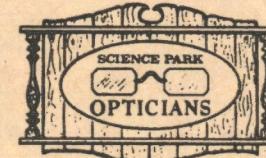

Combine protection and correction with safety lenses available through your professional Science Park Opticians.

Borrowing the old heat for the new room isn't such a hot idea.

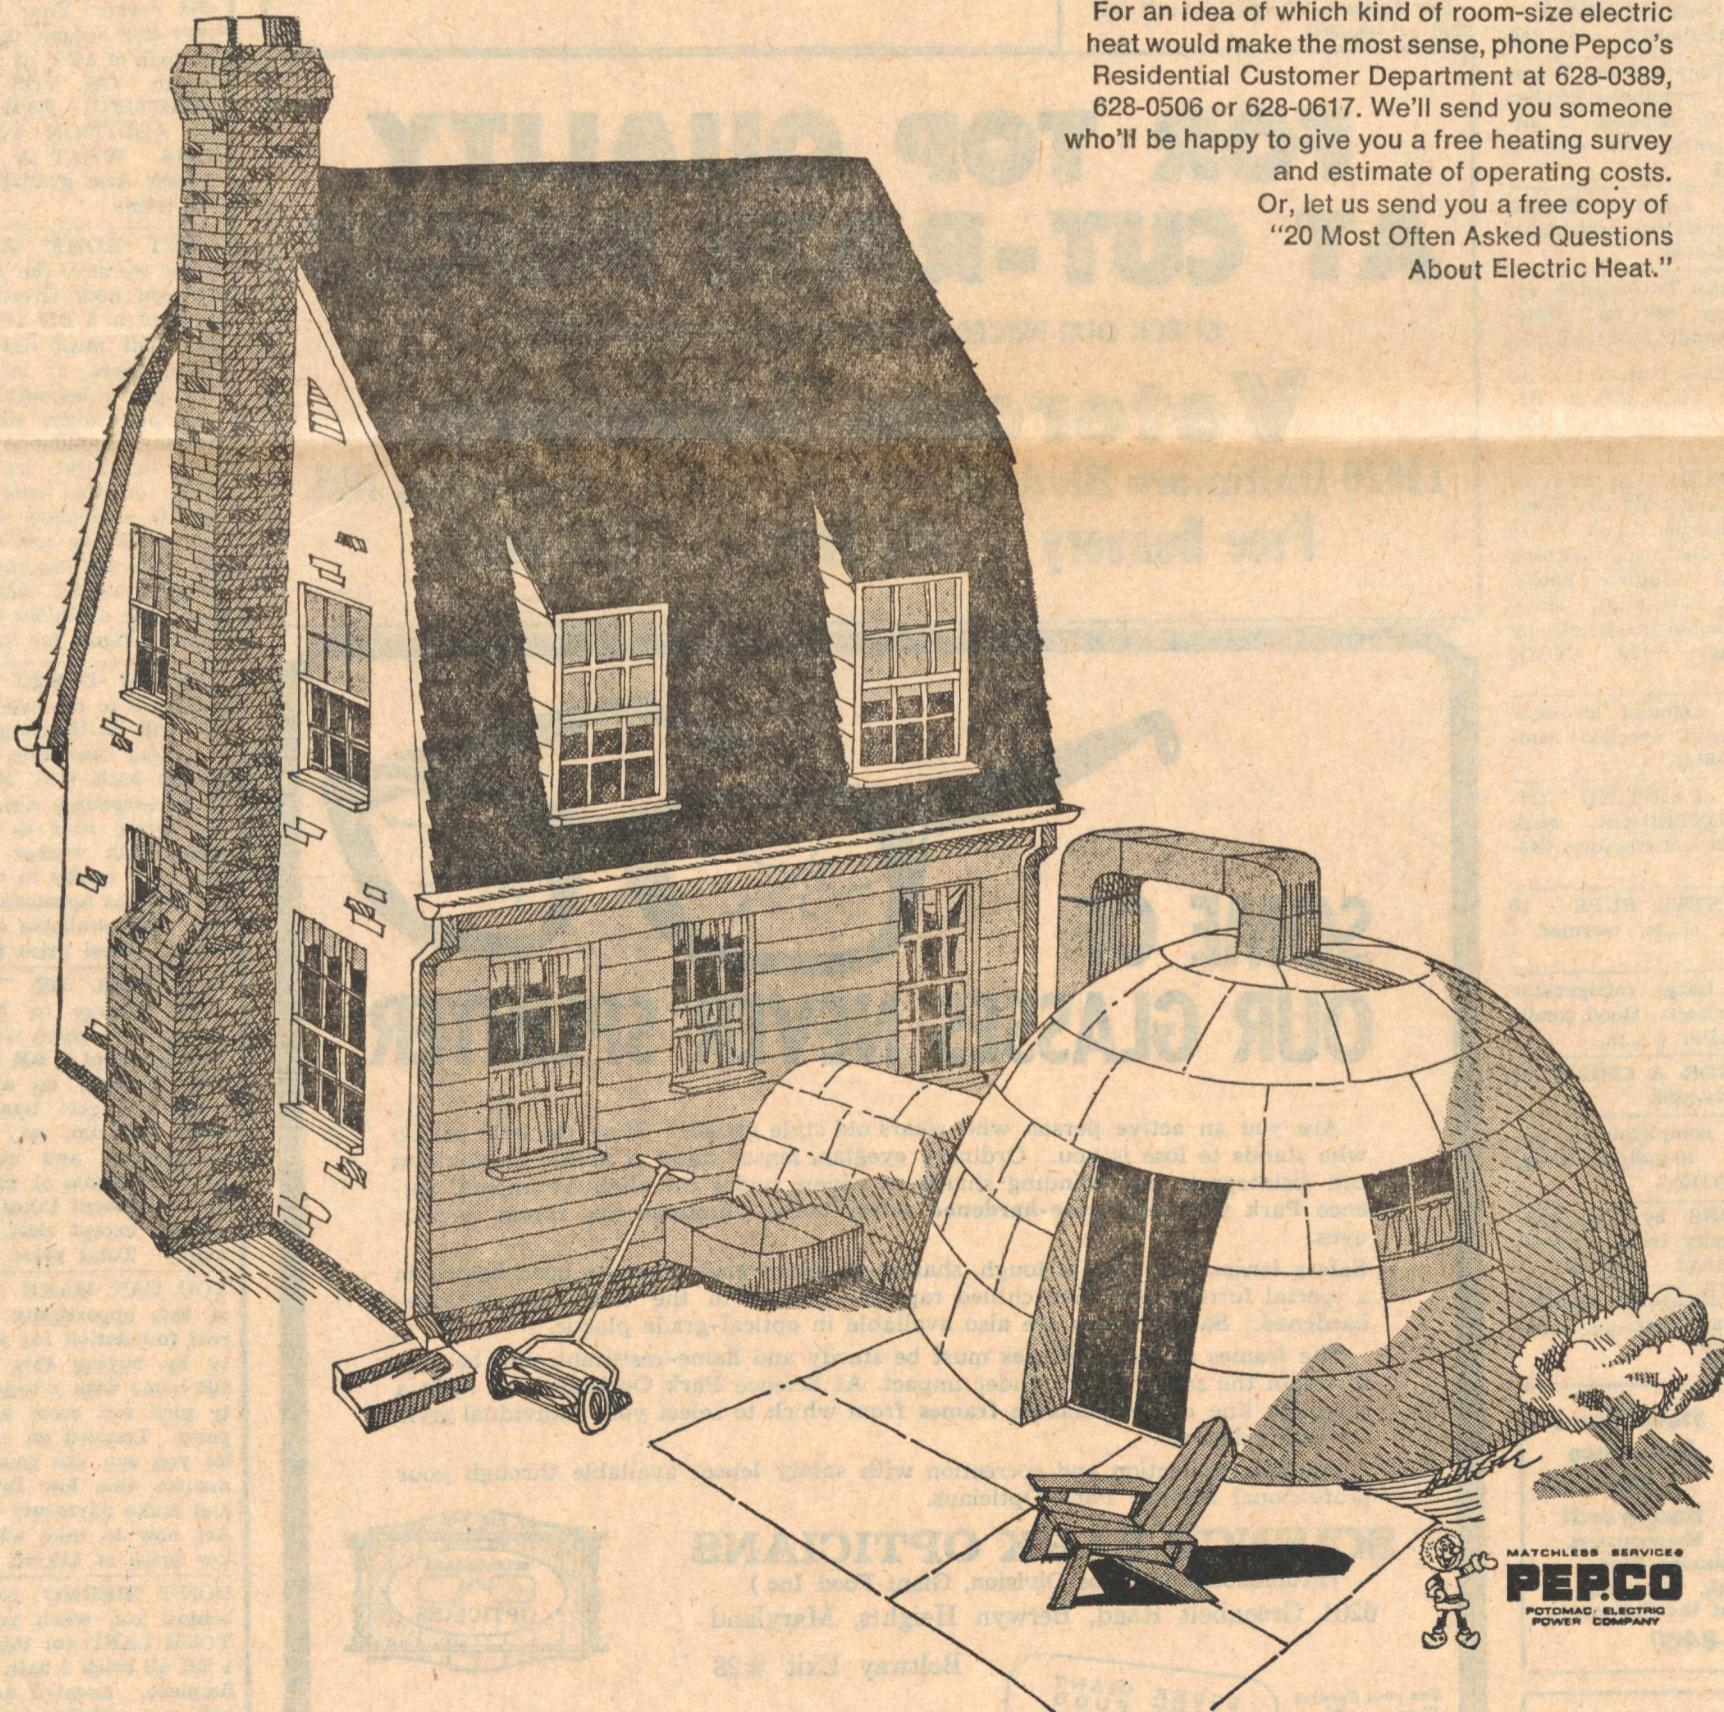

At first blush, tapping your present heat supply might seem logical.

But, come winter, the blush you'll experience won't begin to offset the decided chill you'll feel. And setting the thermostat at 80 won't help. Instead of spreading your present system too thin, add a little electric heat where it'll do the most good.

It comes by the roomful. In baseboard form. In wall units that fit flush, so you hardly notice them. In the ceiling as a hidden cable, or as a radiant panel that installs like ceiling tile.

For an idea of which kind of room-size electric heat would make the most sense, phone Pepco's Residential Customer Department at 628-0389, 628-0506 or 628-0617. We'll send you someone who'll be happy to give you a free heating survey and estimate of operating costs.

Or, let us send you a free copy of "20 Most Often Asked Questions About Electric Heat."
